Rainy May 31 Is Exception, Not Rule Here

Rainy Memorial Days in Gettysburg are the exception rather than the rule, local weather records show, but those same records give no assurance of fair skies on Monday.

In the last 45 years, rain has fallen on only 16 times on May 31. The record for May 30 in these same 45 years is exactly the same.

No rain has fallen here on any May 31 since 1943 — so that from the point of view of averages May 31 may be about due for some showers.

When it has rained on May 31 in Gettysburg the showers have been light and there is nothing on record to show that showers ever prevented the exercises in the National cemetery. The heaviest rain on May 31 in Gettysburg since 1904 was in 1911 when .76 inches fell.

Warm temperatures are not unusual with above-90 readings taken six times on that date. The hottest (Please turn to Page 4)

HOTEL MANAGER CITES CHANGES NEEDED IN U. S.

FRANKLIN MOORE

"Men, money and ideals are the three musketeers of freedom," said Franklin Moore, president of the Penn-Harris Hotel corporation, Harrisburg, at the largest alumni council dinner in the history of Gettysburg college at Huber hall Friday night.

Speaking on the topic, "This America of Ours," Moore told the alumni that "something is radically wrong with this country of ours . . . that ingenuity has outgrown our wisdom. We've learned how to do a lot with science but we haven't learned how to live together."

Pleading for a return to constitutional government, he stated, "law is not law if it is contingent upon application to the administration . . . There is no such thing as partial government control or partial socialism."

"There are three things we must do if we are to correct the present situation. First, correct the government attitude toward private profit. A farmer would still be a peasant if it weren't for the tools that mass production of capital enterprise provided him."

"Second, revise the tax structure of this country to replenish our capital. The risk capital that we knew until 1930 is no longer in this country. This was proved by the $60 billion debt burden in this country before the last war . . .

"Third, we must stabilize our money."

Moore warned, "Quit listening to (Please turn to Page Two)

BATTLE MOUNTS ALONG HIGHWAY IN HOLY LAND

Cairo, May 29 (AP)—The battle tempo for the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv lifeline highway heightened today with word that Egypt has thrown its air force into the crucial struggle.

An Egyptian defense ministry communiqué said last night Egyptian bombers attacked and scattered Jewish troop concentrations at Bab El Wad Gorge, 11 miles west of Jerusalem, through which the highway winds.

The battle is being fought along a four-mile stretch from Bab El Wad to Latrun, key stronghold 15 miles from Jerusalem.

An indication that Israel's war machine needs oil was seen in a report from Haifa that the government of Israel had offered to guarantee the flow of oil to the Arab states, if they provide oil for the Haifa refinery.

Refinery Ready
A British informant said the Iraqi Petroleum company pipeline which supplied the refinery could be operated at once, if an agreement could be reached.

A Jewish government representative said he was prepared to supply the labor to operate the refinery and also to train Arabs for similar work.

Before the Jewish-Arab war, oil was piped to Haifa from the rich northern Iraqi oil fields. It was estimated the huge Haifa plant furnished about 90 per cent of the petroleum needs for the eastern Mediterranean, including nearby Arab states.

The refinery is owned by the British admiralty and controlled by the Consolidated Refineries Ltd. It normally processes more than 100,000 barrels of oil daily.

Old City Falls
In Tel Aviv Jewish military headquarters acknowledged last night that the old city of Jerusalem had fallen to the Arabs, but added that the battle "for the defense of New Jerusalem and for the liberation of the old city continues."

Zionist leaders estimated there were less than 1,500 in the old city when it surrendered. Wild jubilation reigned last night in Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, when news of the surrender spread.

A Trans-Jordan communiqué estimated the total who surrendered at 2,000. It said 350 already had been disarmed and started on their way to a Trans-Jordan concentration camp.

At Lake Success a proposal for United Nations force to stop the Palestine war appeared doomed, despite strong American-Russian support. Security Council President Alexander Parodi said he hoped to get a vote on the plan by tonight.

The Soviet-introduced proposal would order the Jews and Arabs to stop fighting within 36 hours under threat of economic sanctions and military force. It needs seven affirmative ballots. Only the U. S., Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, France and Colombia have supported it.

If the plan is defeated, the Council will consider milder proposals from Britain, France and Colombia. Arab planes conducted raids throughout the Holy Land yesterday.

Additional Bus Service Is Urged

More than a dozen witnesses appeared before an Interstate Commerce Commission board at Harrisburg Friday to testify that there is need for additional bus service from Harrisburg to Washington through Gettysburg.

The witnesses, including Thomas B. Schmidt, Harrisburg, as president of the alumni association of Mount Saint Mary's college and James P. McDermitt, Mount Saint Mary's student, argued that the Capitol bus lines should be permitted to extend their route from the present terminus at Gettysburg, through Emmitsburg and Frederick to Washington.

The hearing was continued until mid-July when the Capitol bus line will complete its case and the opponents of such extension, including the Pennsylvania Greyhound lines, will present their side of the argument.

CHANGES STORY IN SLAYING OF HIS PLAYMATE

Chicago, May 29 (AP)—State's Attorney officials will ask the grand jury next Tuesday for a murder indictment against Roy Adams, husky, baby-faced 14-year-old boy, in the suffocation-slaying of Nancy Schuler, his eight-year-old neighbor and playmate.

State's Attorney William J. Tuohy announced the plans late yesterday after the youth altered his original story and told him he was sexually motivated in slaying the tiny blonde girl in his bedroom Thursday.

Adams, who was seized early Friday morning after an all-night police search, at first insisted to police he smothered Nancy to death with pillows solely because they had quarreled over comic books.

Adams was taken to the state's attorney's office after a coroner's jury recommended that he be held to the grand jury on a murder charge. Police said that chemical tests of Nancy's clothing disclosed the boy had not told the entire story.

Tuohy said after he asked the Adams boy if he had molested Nancy sexually the youth told him he had not told the entire truth in his statements to police.

Tuohy said Adams related he had told Nancy to go to his bedroom to get some comic books.

"She went up there for the books," Adams was quoted as telling Tuohy. "And that's when I got a sudden idea." He then related, Tuohy said, he followed Nancy into his bedroom and threw her over the bed. Adams, who weighs 160 pounds, said he held her face downward with his right knee pressed into her back and a pillow over her head.

"I must have held her for five minutes," Adams said. "She yelled at first, 'stop, Roy! stop!' She kicked and struggled a bit but after that became quiet."

Hershey Workers Get Pay Raises

Hershey, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Wage increases ranging from 4 to 11 cents an hour are included in a new contract agreement reached by management and employees of the Hershey Chocolate Corp., and the Hershey Estates.

The new agreement, announced last night, affects about 3,000 corporation employees and 1,600 estate workers.

The contract also contains long-range cost-of-living provisions similar to the General Motors-United Auto Workers (CIO) plan.

The agreement came as the union was preparing to make plans for a possible strike. J. Z. Yorty, financial secretary-treasurer of Local 464, Bakery and Confectionery Workers of America, said the employees had voted in favor of a strike after reaching a stalemate with the company on the question of wages.

Says Love Departed After Baby's Death

Los Angeles, May 29 (AP)—It was after the baby was born two years ago that love, and Howard Hawks, went out of their home, the film producer's wife testified in obtaining a divorce.

Mrs. Nancy Gross Hawks, 30, several times listed as one of the 10 best-dressed women in the world, said yesterday that after the baby arrived Hawks "seemed sort of disinterested in our marriage."

Hawks, 50, did not contest the divorce. Under a court-approved property settlement Mrs. Hawks will receive $50,000 over a 10-year period, and $500 a month for support of their daughter, Kitty.

LANDS SAFELY

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—An American airlines DC-6 plane with 52 passengers aboard landed safely early today at Southwest airport after radioing ahead that it might have trouble landing.

SEEK AIRMEN, CRASHED PLANE

Baton Rouge, La., May 29 (AP)—Heavy earth-moving equipment is to begin work today digging from a huge crater the bodies of seven service men and the air force plane in which they crashed.

The plane, a twin-engine C-47, was lost about 7:30 p. m. (CST) Thursday in a violent electrical storm. All aboard were killed. Because of the storm the crash was not discovered until yesterday.

Lt. R. L. Krewet of Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., who headed a preliminary investigation, said the accident apparently was caused by engine trouble as well as the storm.

National guard operations at New Orleans identified the dead crewmen from signatures on the plane manifest as Lt. Philip R. Vaughn, pilot; 2nd Lt. K. R. Bailey, co-pilot; Capt. H. E. Zettie and Master Sergeant H. Hyman, all of Walker Base, Roswell, N. M.

The National Guard said the others, all enlisted men, were hitchhiking to west coast bases. It listed them at W. J. Gost, G. K. Christian and D. W. Davis.

The craft struck the ground almost vertically, burying its engines at the bottom of a 15-foot crater. The gas tanks apparently exploded, shattering the plane and strewn wreckage and portions of bodies over an acre.

CITES PLAN TO WIN COLD WAR

Portland, Ore., May 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall laid before the country today his formula for winning the cold war with Russia. It calls for:

1. A continued firm policy toward Russia.
2. A consistent U. S. foreign policy to convince European countries they can rely upon it.
3. Wariness of "deliberate, cynical propaganda" issued by the Russians to play on the western democracies' hope for "some agreement to wipe out the fear of war."

Marshall told the closing session of the general federation of Women's clubs' convention last night that the desire for peace could lead to "ill-advised and trustful actions which hazard the future of this country."

"I feel certain," he said, "that the continuation of the firm course we have been following will lead to the solution of the worst of our difficulties and will eventually clear the way to a sound basis for peace."

"I am absolutely certain that only such a firm and determined course can save the situation for the democracies," he added.

GOP May Block Big Appointments

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Republicans set up a barricade today against confirmation of any further major appointments by President Truman.

With their eyes on the November election, GOP leaders were reported determined to keep all possible jobs open to be filled by a Republican president, if one is elected.

The Republican policy committee was said to have passed the word quietly to Senate committee chairmen to hold up action on several current appointments, including Frieda B. Hennock of New York, first woman to be nominated to the federal communications commission.

Republicans already have agreed to support a bill extending the terms of David E. Lilienthal and his associates on the atomic energy commission only until 1950. Mr. Truman asked a five-year appointment for chairman Lilienthal, with one-to-four year terms for the other four members.

The Senate gave its approval yesterday to the president's choice of Charles F. Brannan of Colorado to be secretary of agriculture. Republicans said they felt no cabinet appointment should be held up.

Boys Who Shot At Teacher Sentenced

New York, May 29 (AP)—Five boys involved in firing a salvo of rifle shots into a Brooklyn schoolteacher's home were sentenced yesterday to indeterminate terms in the New York Training school at Warwick.

The sentences were handed down by Brooklyn Children's Court Justice James V. Mulholland who placed a sixth member of the group on probation and committed another to the city's youth house until June 7. At that time, the parents of the boy have promised to take him to the country home of relatives.

The seven were accused of stealing .22 caliber rifles from a Coney Island shooting gallery, then pumping a fusillade of bullets into the home of Miss Margaret Jokiel to frighten her into passing all members of her mathematics classes.

The sentencing was private. Which of the boys got the various terms was not disclosed.

The last piece of equipment under the Musselman plan for the annex at the Warner hospital has been installed, Walter R. Doud, administrator, announced today.

The equipment is an obstetrical table, costing over $1,200, which is said to be the most modern in the country. Only three of the tables have been installed so far in the United States. The first two made were installed in midwest hospitals and the third was sent here. It was on order for over two years.

BROADCASTS TO RUSSIA PROBED

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Aroused congressmen turned a critical eye today on U. S. broadcasts to Russia, as government and private broadcasting officials shouldered blame for controversial programs beamed to South America.

Angered by testimony that the state department and National Broadcasting Company failed to check on "Voice of America" scripts aired to foreign countries, chairman Chenoweth (R-Colo.) of a house expenditures subcommittee declared: "We're going to look into this whole picture. We know what happened in broadcasts to South America, and some of us are hopping mad about the ridicule heaped on the United States."

"We want to find out what the state department is sending out to other countries, particularly Russia and her satellites."

Chenoweth's committee is conducting one of several investigations touched off by disclosure in the Senate Wednesday that "Voice of America" broadcasts to Latin America had included statements which many lawmakers attacked as "slander" and "sabotage."

The White House, senate and state department all have launched inquiries into the programs.

YANKS ON RELIEF WORK OF NELSON POTTER

By BEN PILEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Connie Mack, whose luck seems to be all good for a change this year, apparently has found the relief man he wants in the veteran Nelson Potter.

Mr. Mack's Philadelphia Athletics gave to have just about the best itching staff in the American League. But Connie wanted an experienced man to play fireman when he was needed.

The script called for Russ Christopher, once the A's starting ace, to play this role. Christopher balked. He wanted starting jobs or nothing. So Christopher was sold to the Cleveland Indians where he wound up as a relief man.

A couple weeks ago the Athletics bought Potter from the St. Louis Browns in a straight cash deal.

Last night in Shibe Park against the New York Yankees he entered the game in the fifth with two on and none out and escaped without a run and from then on the Yanks couldn't move past first.

In all, Potter gave up only two hits and received credit for the 6-3 victory. It was the sixth in a row for the A's who maintained their one game first place margin over the Cleveland Indians.

Black Chicago
Cleveland stayed right behind by whipping the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 0, in Chicago. Don Black and Christopher gave up only five hits but were in trouble several times.

The Boston Red Sox slipped to seventh place again by losing to the Senators, 2-1, in Washington.

A seventh inning rally brought the St. Louis Browns a 5-4 victory over Detroit and moved them to within three percentage points of the fourth place Tigers.

In the National League the St. Louis Cardinals increased their first place lead to three full games over the New York Giants, although rain shortened their game in Pittsburgh to a 1-1 six-inning tie.

Phillies Triumph
The Giants couldn't handle the Philadelphia Phils in the Polo grounds and lost, 6 to 3. New York Manager Mel Ott announced he was playing the game under protest after a ninth inning argument, but the dispute involved an umpire's judgement and the protest isn't likely to get anywhere.

Umpire Art Gore ruled that Emil Verban held a thrown ball long enough to force a runner at second base. The ball then bounded away. The Giants said he didn't.

The Brooklyn Dodgers finally caught up with the Boston Braves and beat them, 7 to 5, in Boston. It was the first time the Dodgers had turned the trick in the last nine games between the two clubs.

Hank Sauer hit his 11th and 12th home runs and Grady Hatton and Johnny Wyrostek chipped in with four baggers for the Cincinnati Reds against the Chicago Cubs, but the long blows weren't enough. The Cubs came from far behind and nosed out the Reds, 10 to 8, at Cincinnati.

Gavilan Kayoes Rossano In First

New York, May 29 (AP)—Kid Gavilan's stunning one-round knockout of Rocco Rossano probably means a summer title shot for the Cuban cloutier with Welter Champ Ray Robinson.

That's what Sol Strauss, acting promoter of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, has in mind. As soon as he saw Gavilan flatten the kid from Brooklyn in 2:01 of the first last night, he turned to George Gainford, who handles Robinson's business affairs.

"Come along," said Sol, "we got business to do."

It was an entertaining evening for the 8,294 fans who paid $28,086 to watch the show. The co-featured 10-rounder provided a thrilling battle and a disputed split decision victory for Rocco Castellani, Luzerne, Pa., middleweight, over Harold Green of Brooklyn. All in all, it was a tough night for Brooklyn.

Coaltown To Win At Belmont Today

New York, May 29 (AP)—Most everybody conceded Coaltown victory in the 73th running of the $25,000-added Withers Stakes at Belmont today. Now they're wondering if he'll flirt with another track speed record.

The No. 2 colt in the Calumet farm three-year-old division has only three others blocking the way in this ancient one mile test—Ben Whitaker's My Request, C. V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge, and King Ranch's Better Self. All will carry 126 pounds.

It is the smallest Withers field since Count Fleet beat two others in 1943, although 63 were nominated for today's race when the books closed April 1.

Just like his illustrious stablemate, the No. 1 Citation, Coaltown has galloped away most of the sophomore scare with his blazing speed.

SUNBURY LEADS IN INTERSTATE

(By The Associated Press)

Sunbury took over first place in the Inter-state League last night by winning its second straight over Wilmington's Blue Rocks 6 to 5. Wildness on the part of Pitcher George Thomas, plus an error with the bases loaded allowed three Sunbury runs and cost Wilmington the game and the league lead.

Third place Trenton dumped fourth place Harrisburg on a three run homer by Maurice (Mo) Cunningham with two out in the seventh inning. The four bagger was the fifth of the season for Cunningham and sailed 405 feet over the center field fence.

Lancaster scored a 9 to 2 win over Hagerstown in a battle to keep out of the cellar. Zeb Wicker survived a shaky two run start to blank Hagerstown the rest of the way and keep Lancaster in seventh place. A single by Joe Muzzo in the 11th inning gave Allentown a 6 to 5 triumph over York. The victory pulled Allentown within a game of the first division.

Racers Scramble To Get In Lineup

Indianapolis, May 29 (AP)—Twelve of 25 cars will scramble from noon to sundown today for three remaining spots in the lineup for the 32nd annual 500-mile race Monday.

Some of the 30 previous qualifiers were not too serene and would be ousted if more than three cars bettered their qualifying speeds.

It was the biggest last-minute battle for starting positions in Indianapolis motor speedway history.

Monday's show will draw some 150,000 spectators and they may see the fastest of the 32 races. Qualification speeds indicated a half-dozen cars had the stuff to beat Floyd Roberts' record of 117.2 miles an hour that has stood since 1937.

WALLACE HITS ANTI-RED BILL

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace attacked the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communism bill today as a declaration of war on the rights of free speech and free assembly in the United States.

The third party presidential candidate said that "As the bill is framed, its penalties can be visited upon every organization which espouses the cause of world peace and progress," and added:

"The Mundt bill would empower the attorney general to proscribe our party and visit criminal penalties upon its members, in the event that it refused — as it most certainly would — to register with him."

In a 3,000-word statement prepared for the Senate Judiciary committee, the former vice president and cabinet member insisted that the measure extends far beyond its aim to shackle the Communist party.

Termining it "the most subversive legislation ever to be seriously sponsored in the United States Congress," he declared: "Here is a bill which purports to guard against dictatorship. Yet it makes the attorney general . . . dictator over every organization in the land. He is given virtually unlimited power to brand and outlaw the association of our people for the peaceful advocacy of common objectives."

The only precedent for such authority, said Wallace, is "the power given to the Nazi minister of the interior by the first laws passed after Hitler's accession to power."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 29 (AP)—It will cost professional golfers, as a group, $100,000 to play the United States open championship in California this year. That's the estimate offered by Gene Sarazen, and since Gene is an easterner it may not give proper consideration to the Californians. Anyway, he's stuck with it.

Sarazen's theory is that it costs a pro $50 a day to stay away from his club and most of them will have to stay away longer to visit the west coast than they would for a centrally located tourney. . . . Then there's the added cost of transportation—"airplane tickets don't grow on trees." . . . "They'll pay $100,000 to win $10,000—that's Citation, 1 to 10—but it's good to win it," Gene sighs.

SLOW TRACK

After Ron Jackson of Western State (Illinois) college won the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds at the recent Illinois intercollegiate conference track meet, his rivals apparently figured there are some days when it doesn't pay to put on your spikes. . . . At least, this conversation was overheard between two members of another team: "What did you do in the hundred?" . . . "I got a 9.9." . . . "What place?" . . . "Sixth."

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Red Ruffing has rejoined the Chicago White Sox organization. He'll be "pitching professor" at schools put on by the Sox. . . . The Fort Wayne, Ind., Zollners, new members of the Basketball Association of America, are talking things over with Bob Cook, the Wisconsin court hotshot. . . . During the Cardinals' eastern tour Stan (the man) Musial made 26 hits in 45 times at bat. A year ago at this time Stan was hitting 150. . . . Herman Barron, winner of the Goodall Golf tournament, bought his ticket several days ago to leave June 2 for the open at Los Angeles although he'll have to qualify in his section the day before. . . . Red Lucas, center fielder and leading hitter on the Duke U. baseball team, is the son of Red Lucas, the old Cincinnati pitcher.

HARD LOSERS

If Michigan's golfers win the big nine championship this week-end, it will be the third championship team in one year to have Pete Elliott as a member. . . . Pete played quarterback on the football team and guard in basketball. . . . Pete apparently is something like Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack, who was spotted working out strenuously a few days before his "old timers" were scheduled to play the Irish varsity. . . . Johnny explained: "I never played in a losing game in Notre Dame stadium and I don't intend to start Saturday."

INTERSTATE LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)

Two winning streaks came to an end last night's (Friday) Eastern League action.

The second-place Utica Blue Sox, after winning six in a row, were stopped by Lou Kretlow of the Williamsport Tigers, who chut them out 5-0. The Albany Senators, after five straight wins, bowed 5-3 to the southpaw slants of Scranton's Jim Davis at Albany.

The Binghamton Triplets came from behind and beat the Elmira Pioneers, 7-5, sweeping a three-game series. The Chiefs scored a clean sweep of their series with Wilkes-Barre at Hartford, shutting out the Barons, 4-0, for the second day in a row.

Kretlow, who received a $37,000 bonus for signing with the Detroit Tigers, parent club of Williamsport, let the 1947 champion Blue Sox down with five hits. He struck out ten batters and walked four, and the 11-hit attack on left-hander Bill McKelvey included a triple, a double and a single from Kretlow's bat.

WALLACE HITS ANTI-RED BILL

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace attacked the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communism bill today as a declaration of war on the rights of free speech and free assembly in the United States.

The third party presidential candidate said that "As the bill is framed, its penalties can be visited upon every organization which espouses the cause of world peace and progress," and added:

"The Mundt bill would empower the attorney general to proscribe our party and visit criminal penalties upon its members, in the event that it refused — as it most certainly would — to register with him."

In a 3,000-word statement prepared for the Senate Judiciary committee, the former vice president and cabinet member insisted that the measure extends far beyond its aim to shackle the Communist party.

Termining it "the most subversive legislation ever to be seriously sponsored in the United States Congress," he declared: "Here is a bill which purports to guard against dictatorship. Yet it makes the attorney general . . . dictator over every organization in the land. He is given virtually unlimited power to brand and outlaw the association of our people for the peaceful advocacy of common objectives."

The only precedent for such authority, said Wallace, is "the power given to the Nazi minister of the interior by the first laws passed after Hitler's accession to power."

Memorial Day Parade To Be Reviewed By Invalid Youth

Westbrook, Me., May 28 (AP) — Plucky David Gagnon, nine, can't go to the Memorial Day parade but parade units are going to go to him — first.

David is resting at home between hospital treatments for burns that necessitated more than 100 operations in the last 25 months.

From a window of his parents' River street home he recently heard distant music of the Catholic Action Crusaders Drum and Bugle Corps practicing for the Monday march.

He asked Drum Major Victor J. Ledoux if the musicians could "march by my house on the way to the parade so I can see them?" Ledoux thought he could arrange that — and more.

The next night the uniformed Crusaders marched by the little boy's window "reviewing stand" and brought smiles to his face with their martial music.

It's been a nightly performance since in good weather.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
WALKING IN THE FOREST

There is something so intimate about a forest that the mere view of one while passing on the train or in a car stirs me. If I were to be asked the outstanding thing about a tree, I would say that it would be its friendliness. Like a great umbrella it stands, offering shelter, coolness and shade for both man and beast.

Thus a forest becomes a great group of friendly intimates. I talk with these trees when I walk among them. There are trees in almost every degree of growth and life. Some are scarred and broken from storm and decay. Yet all these trees have character. At my small summer retreat in Nova Scotia the main island is thick with these grand old trees — powerful hemlocks and pines. Then there are those beautiful white birches that add so much color in the midst of the green. There is always variety in a forest.

I love walking in the forest. It is the most soothing experience I know of. You are alone, yet you are not alone. You can't self-pity there. There is too much to see and to speculate upon. There is the glorious fragrance of the earth, the give of the packed pine needles and dead leaves, and the soft music of the breaking sticks as you tread your way. And all the time there is the echo of some bird-call to break the almost silence.

Walking in the woods is spiritual medicine. In one of the books of Jesse Stuart he tells of returning to his home country and of going out into the forest and embracing the trees, from whose bark he used to write brief bits when his imagination was on the run — evidences of his coming fame. Those trees were his intimates as he dreamed.

All nature writers have loved the forest — Thoreau, Hudson, Thomas, Jeffries, Burroughs and all the others. In my library is a beloved book by J. Horace McFarland called "Getting Acquainted with the Trees," that was published nearly 50 years ago, from articles which appeared in the old Outlook magazine. In his Foreword the author said: "Driven out from my desk by weariness sometimes—and as often, I confess, by a rasped temper I would fain hide from display—I have never failed to find rest and peace and much to see and to love among the common and familiar trees."

There are communion and uplift in every tree that gives forth itself in silent and beneficent messages.

Just Folks

MONEY
The miser hides it 'neath his bed.
The spendthrift tries for some pleasure spends it.
Some save for rainy days ahead.
The friendly fellow often lends it.
The wicked plot and plan to thieve it.
But when death summons, all men
leave it.

Money is noble, nobly used;
Good when it helps the weak and needy;
Bitter when kindness is refused;
Bad when it's worshipped by the greedy.
But howsoever men receive it
Behind them at their death they leave it.

Money can pain and suffering ease.
The old and broken it can pension.
'Tis pleasant when it's used to please.
But ugly when it breeds dissension.
But when it's stilled the pulse's rhythm.
The dead don't take one penny with 'em.

US ABOUT READY TO JOIN WORLD HEALTH SET-UP

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 29 (AP) — It's taken us time but now we're about ready to join the U. N.'s world health organization. Thirty other nations already have done so. Twenty-six were needed to set it up. The idea was worked out at a world health conference in New York in 1946. By next September it will open up shop as a going concern, perhaps in Geneva, Switzerland.

This is what it's supposed to do: Set up a single agency so the world's doctors, or their governments, can: 1. Exchange information for fighting disease. 2. Try to control epidemics and keep them from spreading. 3. Agree on a number of things so there'll be less confusion—like the names for diseases and the drugs for treating them.

The above three points are just a skeleton idea of the work it will try to do.

Senate Approved First

Last July the Senate approved our joining the organization. Then yesterday, almost a year later, the House got around to giving its approval. Action by both Houses — they passed what's called a joint resolution—was necessary. But the way they passed it differed a bit. So they'll have to work out an agreement.

Then President Truman can sign it and make us a member. It probably will cost us about $2,000,000 a year for our share of the expenses.

The health organization will be run by an executive board made up of representatives from the member nations. Our representative — the president will appoint him — has to be a doctor with at least 10 years' practice in medicine.

What Benefits?

What good do we get out of joining? The House Foreign Affairs committee listed some of these points:

1. By keeping down or preventing epidemics in other countries, the world health organization will make the U. S. that much safer from disease.

2. By checking more closely on people flying to the U. S. from other countries, the organization will cut down the amount of sickness and disease brought in here.

3. U. S. citizens traveling abroad will have better protection against disease.

4. Because better world standards will be set up for drugs and medical supplies, the U. S. companies which make them will have better markets abroad.

5. The U. S. not only will receive information about international health problems, but will be able to help solve them.

Takes Family Along On Last Rail Run

Burgetstown, Pa., May 29 (AP) — Blanchard L. Hughey, veteran Pennsylvania railroad conductor, did something few railroaders have done on their "last run" last night — he took all members of his immediate family with him.

When Hughey stepped aboard the Pittsburgh-Burgetstown local he was greeted by his five sons, five daughters-in-law and eight grinning grandchildren.

On their arrival here, the family played host to Hughey at a dinner party to mark his completion of 48 years and three months of service. Now 70, Hughey admitted he was "just a little sad" to end his career but said his grandchildren will give him "plenty to do."

Eight building lots along said road from 50 feet to 54 feet frontage and from 198 feet to 299 feet in depth. Also adjoining said lots a tract of land containing 22 acres, more or less.

The six-inch water main line of the Aspers Water Company either runs through or in front of each of the eight lots. Electric line runs in front of each lot. These lots are the remains of 19 lots originally surveyed, 11 of which have previously been sold.

Of the 22 acre tract approximately three acres is ideal pasture land with O'possum Creek running through the entire tract. The remaining acreage was used as gold fish ponds, fed with spring at north end and emptying into O'possum Creek at south end. Ideal for growing fish with all spring water and natural soil condition. Was originally in farm land and with little expense can be converted back again or would be ideal for a building project.

The growing industries at Aspers create demand for many new homes and each of the offerings is ideal for that purpose.

Sale to start promptly at 6:30 P. M., when terms and conditions will be made known by,

PILOT IS KILLED; PLANE HITS POLE

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP) — The pilot of a light plane was killed and his passenger seriously injured after the plane struck a telephone pole, somersaulted in the air and landed on its back on a highway 60 yards from the boulevard airport.

Police said the pilot, Charles E. Laveck, 27, of Fulton, N. Y., apparently died of internal injuries while his passenger, William C. Stowell, 22, of Philadelphia, suffered concussion, possible skull fracture and lacerations of the face as a result of yesterday's crash.

Stowell, a war buddy of Laveck, was taken to Nazareth hospital where his condition is listed as serious.

Witnesses at the nearby airport said the plane attempted to land several times but failed and then circled several times before coming in for another landing.

As it came in low on the approach, the plane's wing struck a telephone pole and the plane landed on its back in the center strip dividing the two traffic lanes of Roosevelt boulevard.

Officials at North Philadelphia airport said Laveck, who was flying under the G. I. Bill of Rights, brought the plane in from Fulton, N. Y. last Wednesday and parked it at North Philadelphia airport.

Takes Family Along On Last Rail Run

Burgetstown, Pa., May 29 (AP) — Blanchard L. Hughey, veteran Pennsylvania railroad conductor, did something few railroaders have done on their "last run" last night — he took all members of his immediate family with him.

When Hughey stepped aboard the Pittsburgh-Burgetstown local he was greeted by his five sons, five daughters-in-law and eight grinning grandchildren.

On their arrival here, the family played host to Hughey at a dinner party to mark his completion of 48 years and three months of service. Now 70, Hughey admitted he was "just a little sad" to end his career but said his grandchildren will give him "plenty to do."

COMMUNISTS TO CONSOLIDATE CZECH GAINS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Communist steam-roller will thunder across prostrate Czechoslovakia again tomorrow, leveling off most of the remaining signs of her democracy.

To be sure, democracy will remain hidden within the sturdy hearts of the vast majority of the little republic's citizens, for you cannot crush the spirit with a steam-roller. But the visible emblems of freedom will have been ground to dust.

More specifically, a general election is to be held in Czechoslovakia to elect a new parliament. This represents a further consolidation of the Red conquest — a purge of remaining opposition.

The election will follow the Russian single ticket system. Under this scheme there are no opposition candidates, but merely a single ticket containing the names of candidates hand-picked by the Communist-dominated regime. The only way a voter can register disapproval is to cast a white blank ballot which can be seen by election officials, so that there is no secrecy.

If that were the end of the story it would indeed be sad, but there's more to it. Yesterday some 30 fugitive members of the Czechoslovak parliament, and other political leaders, held a conference in London. In effect they constituted a refugee parliament, although they didn't claim that designation. These foes of Bolshevism went on record as declaring that the present Communist-dominated government of Czechoslovakia is illegal. The same is true of the draft constitution.

Quiet Resistance
The refugee conference is highly significant. It is the organization of a resistance which one day will strike for freedom. It speaks for millions of Czechs who cannot speak for themselves.

Similar resistance groups from other eastern European countries are organizing quietly abroad. There are the Poles, Hungarians, the Romanians, the Bulgarians, the Yugoslavs. And meantime underground resistance exists in all the countries which have been brought under Soviet domination.

Some day there will be a spark which will set all this resistance aflame. We may be sure Moscow isn't discounting the growth of the resistance.

Riding with Russell

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

When a motorist is too old to learn anything about handling his car he's too old to drive.

That Test Stop Again

I've said it before, and I feel the warning bears repeating, that it always pays to try the brakes as you go down the driveway. I have just heard of a case where the driver didn't use the brakes until he had to make an emergency stop only to find them wanting. The car stopped but only because there was a street car in its way.

Not only will early use of the brakes let you know that all's well, but will help condition the brake lining as well. If brakes are a little rough you can hold them on partially while running the car 25 yards or so in second gear.

For Future Reference

If the headlights go out when you step on the dimmer switch the chances are that there is water in it. Or perhaps your trouble is merely that the switch has become so rusty it sticks. If so, you'll know there's water in the switch. Let me tell you a simple way to get rid of it.

Just drill several small holes in the base of the switch so that water will be forced out by pumping action of the switch itself. Water somehow will get into the switch under the cap, probably from wet shoes where the driver is using the car some rainy night.

No Basic Change

Reviving waning oil pressure by using a stiffer spring in the oil pressure relief valve doesn't mean that you have cured or even offset any basic trouble with the oil system such as worn pump gears or loose connecting rod bearings. This method of restoring lost pressure is just something for those who like to believe that things are all right even though they know they aren't. The only time you are justified in using a stiffer spring is when the old one is definitely weaker than normal, or if the old spring is broken.

Round Gauge For This

One thing you can do to give the engine the benefit of some advanced care is to stop setting the spark plug gap with a flat feeler gauge. Look at the situation through a magnifying glass and you'll find that a flat gauge will touch the outside electrodes at its edges, leaving the center too far away from the center electrode. If, for instance, you use a .018 inch flat gauge you'll end by actually giving the points a gap of .025 inch. This is just like setting the plugs with the gap they'd have after being worn down by electrolytic action. Put the flat feeler gauge away and use a modern round one for plug point setting.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"The test for king pin looseness is so easy I wonder that more owners do not consider it when they suspect something out of kilter at the front end. Just jack up one of the wheels and check its bearings for condition and adjustment. Now grip the top of the tire with one hand while gripping the bottom with the other. Next alternately pull with one hand and push with the other. This will quickly reveal any looseness. If you can move the top of the tire just one-eighth inch the bushing is worn and should be replaced. Check each of the front wheels separately, of course."

Take Off The Belt

Few motorists think of it but if there is a question whether some odd noise is due to the fan, the generator or the water pump you can decide the matter on modern cars by discontinuing the drive belt. You will have to do some further testing, of course, to decide which of the three units is guilty, but at least you have isolated the noise. Fans are guilty of roar at higher speeds or their bearings may squeal. The water pump can make quite a squeal, almost like a steam whistle. Generator noises are more of the canary bird type. Sometimes the drive belt itself is the bad actor. Your clue here will be the fact that it's noisy when the engine first starts up, usually disappearing later.

Consider This Trio

Strange as it seems, when your car's engine pings excessively the tires are wearing. This is explained by the fact that whenever you are accelerating the limit the driving wheels are exerting maximum pressure against the road. This grinds off tire tread.

Just because you drive fast doesn't necessarily mean that you must make fast stops. You are exposed to such stops but by anticipating the need for them you can usually brake normally.

The trick in getting a quick start is to get into second gear as soon as the car has been set into motion.

Bumping Is Risky

Bumping parked cars in order to make things easier for ourselves doesn't always work out that way. One who now thoroughly believes this is the party who decided he could extricate himself from a tight space by shoving the car ahead a foot farther along. All he did was get himself into a tight spot. The other car wasn't in gear, nor was the hand brake properly set. Jarring it was just enough to release the brake and start the car rolling.

There is also always the risk that a child or some unnoticed adult may be walking near the car you are bumping. This sort of thing happens too often for comfort. Now and again it develops that there is someone in the other car who may be injured when jolted unexpectedly. A dog cooped up in one disturbed parked car just about ripped up the upholstery.

Different In Service

If you have been puzzled because, in spite of testing the spark plugs, they still seem to be missing when in actual service the mystery can be explained by the fact that two things make a great difference in the behavior of any plug, good or bad, I refer to compression and heat.

When you test a plug by laying it on the cylinder head you do not get a true picture because its points are firing at atmospheric pressure and temperature. Even a spark plug tester does not tell the full story. It takes a lot more electrical energy and efficiency to fire the points under compression of around 100 pounds. Heat affects plugs adversely by causing them to preignite the gas mixture.

Wisdom On Wheels

A bookmobile, in case you haven't seen one, is a specially equipped truck that tours small towns to bring literature within easy reach of some of the 70 million people in the United States alone who are either without adequate library facilities or who have no such facilities at all. Bookmobiles make the rounds once a week, sometimes twice that often.

CHRYSLER CORP. WORKERS START BACK TO JOBS

Detroit, May 29 (AP) — The van-guard of 75,000 Chrysler corporation workers began trickling back into the plants today, their 17-day strike ended by a straight 13-cent an hour wage increase.

With their return the second major labor dispute in the automobile industry this year was written off the books.

Chrysler's settlement with the CIO United Auto Workers, announced last night, bettered by two cents the raise given 225,000 strike-threatening General Motors employees under a cost of living formula only three days earlier.

Represents Compromise
It provided less than half the union's original demand but more than twice Chrysler's best previous offer.

It also extended the company's contract, due to expire in 11 months, until August, 1950. Either Chrysler or the UAW can seek an adjustment of wage rates once any time after June 15, 1949. Salaried employees, some of them represented by the UAW, were given an eight per cent raise with a floor of $20 a month.

There was no official explanation as to why Chrysler settled for a flat sum rather than the widely-heralded GM sliding scale. However, a union customarily holds out for a penny or two more than the pattern for its members on strike.

Hailed By UAW
Chrysler would not say whether it plans to raise car prices to cover its higher labor costs.

The agreement left only the Ford Motor company of the industry's big three yet to settle with the UAW in the third postwar wage drive. It apparently knocked a second prop from under Ford's counter-demand for a wage cut.

The auto union promptly hailed the settlement as "a signal victory for all American workers in view of the determination of industry as a whole to fight against any wage increases at all or, in some instances, to fight for wage reductions while prices continue to rise."

Norman Matthews, UAW Chrysler director, said the strike had "cracked the solid opposition" of the auto, steel and electrical industries to pay raises this year.

Idle Since May 12
Despite the settlement, only a handful of employees were called back to work today to ready machines for production. Chrysler said assembly line operations could not be resumed for more than a week.

Chrysler workers in 16 plants in Michigan, Indiana and California left their jobs May 12 in a demand for a 30-cent boost and several non-wage benefits. On the eve of the strike the union scaled down its demand to 17 cents. Chrysler's best previous offer was six cents and that was withdrawn after the union turned it down.

Ford, in asking for a pay cut two weeks ago, contended its rates were higher than those at its two principal competitors. Both GM and Chrysler disputed the claim.

York Springs

York Springs—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Starry have had as house guests their niece, Mrs. Stanley Robbins, and family, Philadelphia. Mrs. Robbins, the former Miss Joan Starry, daughter of R. M. Starry, made her home with the W. R. Starry family as a child after the death of her mother.

Mrs. Charles Menges entertained fellow members of the local WCTU chapter at her home this week.

The Rev. and Mrs. Henry Clausen, Anderson, Ind., has been in this section. He and his wife have been conducting a revival at the Church of God of which the Rev. Donald G. Roamer is minister. The Rev. Mr. Clausen had been on the faculty of the Theological Seminary of Anderson.

The Junior class of the local high school were sponsors of a skating party at the Forest Park rink, near Hanover, on Thursday evening.

The local Boy Scout troop made a canvass throughout the town during the week to gather newspaper to sell for the benefit of their organization.

A parade and appropriate services for Memorial Day were conducted here Friday evening, meeting at the high school and proceeding throughout the town. All organizations of the vicinity were invited to be represented in the parade.

The Rev. John Lamour, an English clergyman who recently arrived in this country and will participate in the International Camp Meeting of the Church of God at Anderson college, Anderson, Ind., was here during the week when he officiated at a service conducted at the local church. The Rev. Mr. Lamour is a missionary.

TICKETS SCARCE

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP) — Very few Pennsylvanians are going to get to see the national Republican convention starting here June 21. G. Mason Owlett, GOP national committee man, said yesterday only 381 tickets have been allotted to the Keystone state. And before any of the duets find their way into the hands of the general public, 67 county chairmen and 100 state committee members will be taken care of.

by Kathleen Harris

Chapter 22

It was in the middle of that week, after her mother's return, that Mrs. Jones, head of the Home, phoned the clinic to report that the little boy, Jimmy, had run away. It was Doctor Baird who first got the message, and who, in turn, imparted the information — and what it meant, in his opinion — to Hildred.

"I don't want to say I told you so," he said, that deep furrow between his sandy brows, his gray eyes stern, "but you can see, Hildy, that it would have been far better to have let the boy alone."

Hildred was afraid that Randy was right; but she did not think this the time to argue that. "We must find him," she said. "That's the important thing now. Where do you suppose he has gone?"

"Back to the farm, most likely," Randy observed. "I doubt if he'd know his way to your apartment. But it won't be difficult to locate him — I've put the police on it already."

"The police!" Hildred was dismayed. If Jimmy was picked up by a policeman the child would be terribly frightened. He would think he not only was going to be taken back immediately to the Home, but that he was going to be punished. "I wish you hadn't done that, Randy. I think I could have found Jimmy." She did know why, but she had a feeling that the boy might try to go to the plantation.

"Perhaps I should have consulted you," Randy was the professional doctor now, withdrawn and forbidding. "It is your case. Unless you are ready to agree that you had better turn it back to me."

"Oh, don't talk like that, Randy!" She was so upset over Jimmy that she dared speak up to Randy whether it widened the breach between them or not. "I'll admit it appears that I have been wrong. I supposed when Jimmy found I had gone away and that he had to spend the week-end in the Home" — Lucien had not sent for him, she had learned — "he thought I had forgotten him, and my promise."

"It was bad for the boy," Randy said. "It was humoring and spoiling him. It amounted to more than that. He would have got used to the Home by now, had you not given him glimpses of other surroundings. Taking him to the Lanier place — that, in my opinion, was a big mistake."

Hildred could not believe that the happy times Jimmy had had with Robin and Lucien and herself could have been so harmful; yet she could offer no proof that they had not. She did not believe Jimmy would ever have got used to or been happy in the Home.

"Mercy on us!" Mamie exclaimed, after the doctor had gone out in what she knew was one of his "huffs" from the way he had slammed the doors after him.

Hildred put through a call to the big house. When she finally got through Lucien's low laugh came back to her over the wire. "My dear," he said, "there's nothing to be alarmed about, absolutely nothing. Jimmy is here."

"He is!" Her relief was so great that although she was half perched on the edge of Randy's big desk, her knees practically buckled under her. She got a firmer seat, said, "I had a hunch he might come there. But now that I know he has — and is perfectly safe — I feel like spanking him!"

Lucien laughed again. "That won't be necessary," he assured her. "I have already given him a good sound lecture."

"I have told Jimmy he will not have to return to the Home," Lucien's voice was the one that brooked no opposition.

"But you shouldn't. That will only make it so much worse!"

"I cannot see why since it is true. You forget, Hildred — his voice became soothing now, placating, yet with an undercurrent of amusement as if he anticipated her reaction to what he was about to say — "that I told you I had something to tell you upon your return. This was that something."

"I wish you would explain," Hildred knew she sounded a bit curt, almost cross. But to have Lucien chuckling to himself and talking in riddles and proposing things that could not possibly work out . . . She could just picture Randy if she were to tell him!

"I will explain. If only you will listen." There was a little pause as if Lucien were waiting for her to promise to do so.

"I am listening. Please go on."

"There is no reason why Jimmy should return to that place — he does not like it, he is unhappy there. It makes him physically and mentally ill."

There was nothing for her to say to that; it was all true.

"You pointed out," Lucien continued, "that it was doubtful if anyone would wish to adopt him, since he is not an infant, or a little girl with pretty curls and dimples. And so, I have decided — though it really was Liz's original idea — that Jimmy should stay here. That was the something I had to tell you, Hildred."

"But it is not as simple as that."

"Why not?" Lucien's tone was coolly imperative. "There is plenty of room. The boy likes it here. He is fond of me, as you also pointed out yourself. In fact, I cannot see anything more simple, my dear, than this so simple solution!"

"I am sorry I sound ungrateful," Hildred said. "And I would be pleased if I thought your solution workable, Lucien."

"That is better! Then you will think it over — and discuss it with your doctor — and have everything arranged." Now his voice plainly stated that Lucien knew — as always — he would win.

"I cannot promise you that you can keep Jimmy."

Chapter 23

Hildred was sure Randy would never agree to Jimmy's staying at the Laniers.

But the amazing part was that, this one time Randy did not disagree. He did not even put up an argument. When she got him on the phone to tell him Jimmy had been found she thought it best also to tell him right away that Jimmy was going to stay on a few days at the big plantation.

She waited for the explosion that she was so certain would follow. But Randy's voice came back in its even professional tenor, "I see. Well, that might not be a bad idea."

"You — you mean you really think it would work out?"

"It might," Randy's voice was utterly impersonal.

She was in deeper now than ever, she reflected, as she hung up the receiver once more.

"Now I do wish I could just crawl in a corner and have a nice quiet breakdown," she said to Mamie, still the interested spectator.

"You mean the Doc was that bad?"

"No, he was that good. He was very agreeable, very neat. He just stepped out of the picture, Mamie — and let me carry the ball."

Mamie, again, answered for her. "He's doing it because of you, too — the Doc is. He may not know it yet. But I still figure he'll wake up in time. He thinks you and this Lanier man have got so thick that it's better for him to leave you together."

"That doesn't make any sense!" Hildred was cross now.

"Sure it does!" Mamie defended her knowledge. "You'll see. Some men, like Doctor Baird, are so stubborn and blind and dumb they set off their own noses. Jest so, this time, he don't spite his own face — and your happiness."

"Before I'd go to all that bother for any man . . ." But what was the use? Mamie certainly did not know what she was talking about now.

She had told Lucien Robin could call for her at five o'clock. She would go out and see Jimmy. She would tell Lucien, and his mother, that the boy could stay for awhile. What else, as Randy had said, could she do? But there would have to be some other solution. Hildred was determined as to that.

Jimmy was so happy that she did not have the heart to scold him, especially as Lucien insisted he already had. "I am going to let you make a little visit here," Hildred told the boy. "But that does not mean, Jimmy, that it is for keeps. You must understand that, dear." She felt it was best to be honest with him, if he was only a child.

"But Lucien said I could stay as long as I liked!" Some of the radiance was dimmer in the enormous big dark eyes. "I like it here. I like it much better than any place else. And, Miss Hil, I won't go back to the Home." Now his eyes were filled with dark tragedy. "I will run away again—I will kill myself first!"

"Do not say that!" Lucien's voice was like a knife. The same dark tragedy was reflected in his own eyes. He knelt down to take the boy in his arms, to hold him tightly; he looked up at Hildred, standing silently apart. "You see!" his tone was reproachful, "he is very much like me—alas, too much! And you must also see now that he must be allowed to remain."

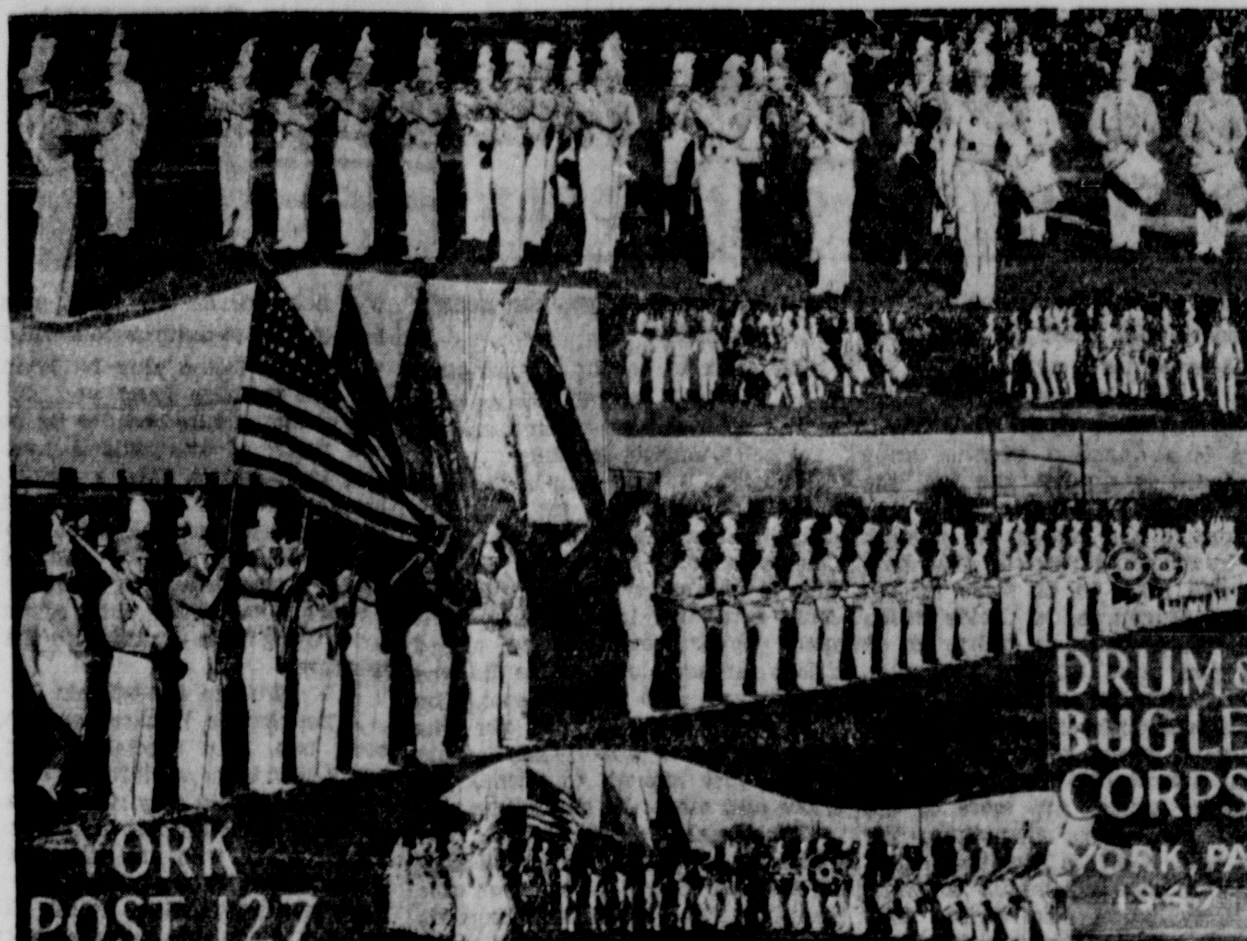

"I hardly think Jimmy would go that far," she returned coolly. "Jimmy, you are a very naughty boy to talk that way. You should be punished—as you should have been for running away. We will see how good you are," she finished, giving as much, no more than she felt she could. "That will determine how long you may visit here, Jimmy."

Lucien got to his feet, but not before he had given the boy another reassuring hug. "We will both be very good, won't we, sonny? I cannot understand why our little nurse is so angry with us. You run along now with Robin—he is waiting to take you down to the barn. And you, Hildred, are invited for tea which is waiting for us."

In spite of herself Hildred had to smile, as Lucien took her arm to lead her into the house. She said, "You know, Lucien, it is not as simple as you try to make out. You should be punished, too—or scolded soundly."

"If you do the scolding I shall not mind," he told her, his dark eyes smiling deeply into hers. "And there is something more that I have to tell you—something that may make everything far more simple than you seem to think, my dear! But, come, Liz is waiting to pour—she, too, is most anxious to see you."

Something more to tell her . . . how he loved to make things mysterious—she felt she understood Lucien now and that that, really, was all the mystery there was about him, or the Laniers. His love of the

The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of York Post No. 127 (shown above), which will lead the Albert J. Lentz Post No. 202 division in the Memorial Day parade on Monday afternoon, was re-organized in April, 1946, as a class "A" corps with all members of the corps members of the Legion. All of them are also veterans of World War II.

The York drum corps has for many years enjoyed an enviable reputation for its parade and musical work, and the present organization has upheld this reputation. In the brief period of 15 months after its reorganization, the corps placed second in the state Legion drum and bugle corps contest in Pittsburgh last year.

"Must" Tasks For This Week

At least five tasks face the suburban and rural gardener and home owner this week, tasks which cannot with safety and wisdom be postponed later because the important factor of time is waving its warning flag. They are:

1. Plant pop corn. As here stressed earlier in the spring, pop corn should be planted before field corn in order to give the crop plenty of time to mature fully on the stalk during the warm days of late August and early September. If this work has been delayed, complete it this week. Pop corn is a valuable crop to grow for home use. It should be given a fertile, well prepared loam and not shuffed off to a neglected, left-over nook.

2. Set out pepper plants. Sweet peppers are not only a tasty vegetable to incorporate in green salads and to cook with various meat dishes, but they are exceptionally nourishing sources of valuable vitamins and minerals. They should find a prominent place in every vegetable garden. Of course, to growing season peppers demand, soils for sowing seed under glass in late March. From 120 to 150 day are required for peppers to reach edible size from date of sowing seed. Therefore, the task for this week refers to setting out well rooted commercial plants. Give this vegetable a well drained, mellow and fertile loam in a sunny location.

Some rotted manure is beneficial, also a complete fertilizer, followe, by one or two side dressings with nitrogenous fertilizer after growth is well under way.

3. Set out at least a few eggplant plants. Here is another valuable home garden vegetable which demands a long growing season, greatly similar to the green pepper. Set out well rooted plants no later than this week. Rotate eggplants to a new location each year to reduce soil-borne disease dangers.

4. Feed shade trees. Shade trees are native to deep, cool, moist forests. In the lawn, along streets or along highways or fence rows they find many conditions unfavorable to their vigor. To have beautiful, thriving shade trees it is necessary to feed them every spring with complete fertilizer. This should be done about the time each species comes into leaf, but if done no later than this week, benefits will be numerous. To feed deciduous trees later may stimulate late growth which does not have sufficient time before winter to ripen it wood.

New Oxford

New Oxford—Green Ridge school-house, near here, has been closed for the summer vacation. The teacher is Miss Ruth A. Deatrick, East Berlin, N. 2.

The Catholic cemetery at the east end of town is being prepared for the Memorial Day observance on Monday evening. The local Catholic pastor, the Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, has explained that anyone wishing to bring flowers for decoration of the graves may find an ample supply of containers in the toolhouse on the grounds. A list of instructions for decorating graves was posted this week in the vestibule of the Catholic church.

The infant daughter of Dwight and Martha M. Swain Kessel has been named Barbara Ann.

Mrs. Gordon B. Wolf was recently received into membership of Trinity Lutheran church, East Berlin, by adult baptism.

C. Robert Sleighter, proprietor of the furniture store at the square, is having repairs made to his show window which was broken more than a week ago when struck by the wheel which flew off a car.

An extension is being built to the small building at the Aero Oil company property which was moved back from the road several weeks ago.

A large group of students of the local high school who were graduated Tuesday evening were recently entertained at a wieners roast at the home of their classmates, Jean Miller, Abbotstown. Guests were: Margaret Alwine, Anna Roche, Lois Sheely, Kathryn Wolfgang, Edith Kinneman, Gloria Potter, Loretta Baker, Louise Myers, Mary Adams, Jean Altland, Nancy Harner, Donald Diehl, William Hoffacker, Evan Butler, Roland Clousher, Melvin Wentz, Ryno Miller, Wilbur Hildebrand, Charles Harman, Dean Hull, George E. tell whether or not the child is ready for school. Twenty-two children took the tests which were under the direction of Mrs. Naomi Schwartz, first grade teacher; Mrs. Brenda Walker, school nurse; and Miss Grace Brandon, Gettysburg, supervisor of special education. Another clinic will be held prior to the re-opening of the schools in fall for those who were unable to be present at Friday's clinic.

There was a meeting of the faculty of the Littlestown Community Daily Vacation Bible school Friday morning in the Littlestown grade school building when plans were completed for the opening of the school at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Rev. Kenneth D. James, dean of the school was in charge. All sessions of the school will be held in the grade school building and the devotional services will be held in the sanctuary of Redeemer's Reformed church.

School will be in session daily for children from ages 4 to 14, from June 1 to June 11 from 9 to 11 a. m., excepting on Saturday and Sunday. It was decided to omit the customary closing exercises on the evening of the last day of the school. Certificates will be awarded for perfect attendance. The following will be the daily schedule: 9 to 9:05 a. m., recording of attendance; 9:05 to 9:30, chapel in Redeemer's sanctuary when the first 10 minutes will be devoted to devotions and the remaining 15 minutes to hymn study; 9:30 to 10:15

FLOODS SWEEP NORTHWEST U.S.

(By The Associated Press)

More thousands fled their endangered homes today in the Pacific northwest's worst flood in 54 years. The death toll mounted to 15 and property damage soared into uncounted millions. Main rail and highway routes were disrupted and more were threatened.

An officially declared state of emergency existed in Washington and Idaho. The militia was ordered out in British Columbia to aid the swelling numbers of refugees.

Travel was disrupted in wide sections of western Canada and to a lesser extent in Washington state. The transcontinental main line of the Great Northern railroad was cut by the Wenatchee river near Cashmere. Traffic was being rerouted over other tracks. Vancouver, B. C., had only one rail link left with eastern Canada. The main Columbia river highway east of Portland was closed by floods.
